On the Firing Line

Senator Massey will greet the voters of this section within a short time. Senator Massey is a man who has devoted a great portion of his life to the interests of the state of Nevada, and when the vacancy occurred in the senate through the death of Hon. George S. Nixon the appointment of Senator Massey was approved by all persons, irrespective of party. It was recognized that Senator Massey would always be found on the firing line in any engagement in which Nevada interests demanded fight. This proved to be true immediately after Senator Massey took his seat in the upper house. He entered into debates on the floor of the upper house in a manner which stamped him as absolutely fearless and earnest and Washington newspapermen, keenest of all observers, announced that another leader had been added to the republican ranks. Senator Massey's fight for legislation allowing postal employees to organize for their mutual benefit and protection won him hundreds of friends. He entered the fight because he believed the men were entitled to consideration and fair treatment. Senator Massey's election is imperative. It is for the best interests of the state that Nevada has an active man, thoroughly in touch with conditions throughout the state as junior senator.

Mining Versus Politics

Notwithstanding the fact that one of the greatest political campaigns in the history of the United States is being waged throughout this land, there is but little outward manifestation of interest to be noted among the voters of Tonopah. It is not hard to secure a political argument but it is troublesome to extend that argument over a period of five minutes. The people of this camp, while they are keeping informed as to the progress of the campaign, are paying more attention to their business affairs and watching the camp prosper.

It is the growing prosperity of Tonopah that is receiving the attention of the voter. Those who are interested in mines, or who are the owners of mining stocks are paying close attention to the progress of the different properties and hardly a day passes but what the shareholder does not realize a profit on his investments.

The mining game is of more interest to the investor than the political game, especially when money is to be made, and that is exactly the situation in Tonopah today.

Wildes and His Report

Receiver Wildes of the long defunct State Bank and Trust company has at last filed a report with the district court at Carson. What the report contains we are unable to state, but it is a mass of figures. Efforts are now being made by the Bonanza to secure copies of this report and as soon as we are successful, the unfortunate depositors of the defunct institution will be informed as to the assets and liabilities that remain.

There are many interesting items that should be contained in the report, but it will remain for an investigation to determine the ground that is really covered. The Bonanza for years has been advocating the rendering of a report by the receiver, and now it appears that results have been obtained. It may be possible that the action of the receiver was brought to leave the state legislature the trouble of making a public investigation, and the success of the movement will be determined when the legislature meets.

An Arkansas woman wanted a piece of Roosevelt's coat for a souvenir. It would have been considered bad form had she secured a portion of the seat of the colonel's trousers.

LOCAL MINING MAN RELATES TALE OF FISHING TRIP

MAKES TWO FISH OF UNKNOWN SPECIES TOW ROW BOAT TO THE SHORE

Intimate friends of Frederick Bradshaw, superintendent of the Belmont Mining company, will be surprised to learn that he is reckoned as one of the most expert albicore fishermen on the coast of California. What is an albicore? We are unable to state, but from the lengthy accounts of Mr. Bradshaw's adventures in Los Angeles, we are lead to surmise that it is some ferocious fish that wears buttons.

The Los Angeles Examiner of Monday's issue contains the following with regard to Mr. Bradshaw's adventure while participating in a fishing expedition:

Stand back, Ananias, and hearken to this latest fish story, from the very back row of the bleachers!

Digest all this, Mr. Isaac Walton, and know what you missed when you missed the albicore of Catalina.

Anyone who does not believe that two albicore can be driven tandem across the waves and landed safely on a beach should call upon the following four gentlemen and see the bronze buttons which they received for the feat. They are:

C. A. Heller of Philadelphia, president of the Tonopah Belmont Mining company; Charles M. Hicks, a broker of Philadelphia; F. Bradshaw, superintendent of the Tonopah Belmont Mining company, and Charles Sinkler, a Philadelphia attorney, all of whom are now at the Hotel Alexandria.

These four started for Catalina on Saturday and commenced to fish. It was a day of discouragement but they kept it up and went fishing again yesterday.

Within ten minutes of one another each fisherman had hooked an albicore weighing at least 25 pounds.

Two albicore pulled seaward—and two for the shore. Heller says that there was fear lest the boat be pulled apart. Then Lawyer Sinkler suggested that the two albicore pulling seaward be landed—immediately.

After much serious exercise the outgoing albicore were landed.

"We're making for the shore at 20 knots an hour," cried Hicks.

"What's the matter—tide-rip or under tow?" stammered Bradshaw.

"It's the albicore," said Heller.

"Let's drive 'em in to Catalina," said Sinkler.

Thus the launch progressed like Neptune's chariot. They were nearing shore—"Look out for the rocks," shouted Heller.

"Land 'em now, quick," said the launchman—and they did.

Catalinas welcomed the fish-drivers on their safe landing.

The four fish were weighed. The smallest weighed 25 pounds; that of Sinkler 38½. Results, four bronze buttons.

This story was told and the buttons displayed at a dinner party at the Jonathan club last evening at which W. P. O'Meara, president of the Arizona Belmont Mining company, was present.

"But now really, did they actually—er—?" said O'Meara.

"Well, there are the buttons," said Heller and all four nodded solemnly in silence.

TO COMMAND REBELS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Juan Irias, former Zelayist who recently circulated a petition in San Jose, Costa Rica, calling for the withdrawal of American forces from Nicaragua, has gone to Nicaragua to command the rebel forces there. This advice was received at the state department today. General Mena, in ill health, is said to be about to retire from the leadership of the uprising.

FORMER NEVADA CONVICT EXECUTED IN UTAH PRISON

SALT LAKE, Sept. 26.—Murderer Harry Thorne was shot to death at the penitentiary this morning. He chose shooting as the mode of execution. Thorne was formerly a Nevada convict.
